A petition requesting the Bay St. Louis commission council to call an election on the possible adoption of the council-manager form of government was presented to city-officials at their regular meeting Monday night.

The petition, containing 793 signatures, was delivered to Mayor Warren Carver by E. J. Marengo, chairman of the Council-Manager Committee. Commissioner William Frisbie, who also serves as city clerk, said that he would certify the signatures as registered voters in the city of Bay St. Louis and would notify the council in "about three days".

Should the petition contain enough signatures (20 percent of the qualified voters), city officials will then decide on an election date.

Paul Vegas, a member of the committee, told council that the committee would like to submit recommendations for the election for consideration. Mayor Carver agreed, pointing out, "This is a serious undertaking-the public should know the 'pros and cons' of both forms of government before they decide."

In other council business, a motion by Commissioner Andre Arceneaux to ceneaux reported that he had received several complaints since the council changed the street to two-way more than two months ago. However, Mayor Carver stated that he was against returning Main St. to one-way unless Court St. was also made a one-way

A motion by Commissioner Frisbie to replace B.D. 'Fip" Johnson as the city's building inspector also died for lack of a second when Commissioner Arceneaux requested a thorough investigation into recent allegations that Johnson was "incompetent and incapable of performing his job".

Frisble explained that his action was the result of recent problems in the building inspector's office, primarily the fact that "Johnson has issued building permits in violation of certain zoning and building ordinance." Citing the city's headache over the Getman building and two other recent problems with building permits, Frisble said.." this is our responsibility and we should do something to rectify the situation." He also said that during a recent in

City Asked To Investigate Method Of Permit Issuance

The Bay St. Louis Planning and bring Connectation will make a recommendation that city officials take remedial action to correct problems existing with the city's building inspector.

The action was taken Thursday night at a special meeting of the commission after members were asked to review

two building permits issued by B.D. "Fip" Johnson, the city's building inspector. In both cases, the commission claimed, the building permits had apparently been issued in violation of existing zoning regulations.

E.J. Marengo, commission member, first made a motion asking the city officials to replace Johnson. Marengo gave as his reasons the fact that "this is not the first time we (the commission) have had to handle an error made by Johnson". He also said that he felt and incapable of handling the job": Marengo added, 'No telling how many permits he (Johnson) has issued and the law has been broken." The motion failed for lack of a second. Wilson Webre objected to the wording of Marengo's motion and saked that personalities not be brought into the matter. "I feel this commission should make some recommendation but this is a city matter and the council should make the decision."

Webre then made a motion asking the city to look into the problem and to take "remedial action to correct this matter." The commission approved the motion with the exception of Marengo who voted against it.

One of the permits discussed at the meeting was one issued to St. Stanislaus for a garage now under construction on Union St. Work had been stopped on the structure after a neighbor had complained about the

The commission approved the permit, however, after Bay St. Louis City Attorney Gerald Gex explained that, although the building would be in a residential neighborhood, the garage would be contiguous to the St. Stanislaus plant and can be considered an accessory building.

Representing St. Stanislaus were Brother Pierre St. Pierre, Brother Lee Barker and attorney Michael Haas who presented three letters from neighbors in that area, including one from the complainant, stating that they had no objection to the building.

Brother Pierre then outlined future plans for the school and emphasized that the Brothers of the Sacred Heart wanted to work with the commission in making sure that this problem would not arise again.

Another problem discussed that night but which will be decided on at a later date was a permit issued to Medrid Spiers for construction of a large garage in a residential neighborhood. Johnson stopped work on the building because Spiers may be in violation of zoning laws in that area. However, the slab and frame of the building had been completed before Johnson called a halt to the work.

According to Marengo, it was because of these two incidents and problems with building permits in the past, that prompted him to ask for the building inspector's replacement.

Hospital Will Hire Doctor For Weekend Emergency Duty

by Adoree Shortle Echo Staff Writer

A system to benefit both the hospital and local physicians as well as continue maximum emergency room service was adopted on a temporary basis at a Hancock General Hospital board meeting Tuesday night.

Acting on a proposal by Dr. Sidney Chevis, hospital chief of staff, the board passed a motion unanimously to hire a resident physician from a nearby larger hospital for weekend emergency room duty at Hancock General, thereby relieving the local staff doctors during the period of heaviest emergency patient flow.

Hospital records show the influx of patients to the hospital's emergency room has increased steadily over the past two years, Chevis told the board. while the in-patient census as well as physician and nursing staffs have decreased. An alarmingly low percentage of fee collections has compounded the problem. The five staff doctors are treating an average of 400 emergency room patients per month or 3,300 patients per year, 60 percent of which come in on weekends usually within a 48-hour period, he explained.

The hospital's medical staff has traditionally serviced the emergency room on a courtesy basis, receiving no remuneration from the hospital. Staff doctors have been taking 24-hour E.R. duty on a rotation basis, seeing as many as 30-40 patients a day in their offices then often spending the better part of the night on hospital emergency calls.

"We could handle it when there were six of us, but now the load is too heavy for five," Chevis stated, referring to the recent withdrawal of Dr. Wesley McFarland from the staff.

The situation is particularly difficult on weekends, he said, when there is a high incident of highway accident victims, persons injured in fights and a surprising number of patients from the Pass Christian-DeLisle area. Adding to the problem is the fact that the hospital averages less than 25 percent of E.R. fees and the on-duty doctor gets far less. It is not uncommon, Chevis related, for the physician to treat 25 or more patients in a 24-hour period and be paid by only two or three.

Chevis, speaking for the medical staff, suggested the weekend resident physician system as a possible answer to the emergency room problem. Initially the arrangement would provide a resident in the hospital from

Grand Jury Issues Report

Judge Leslie Grant by the Grand Jury, empaneled during the January term of circuit court:

The following report was presented to.

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT HANCOCK COUNTY, MISSISSIPPI

JANUARY 1973 TERM

GRAND JURY REPORT

TO THE HONORABLE LESLIE B. GRANT, CIRCUIT COURT JUDGE

We, the Grand Jury, having been duly empaneled, sworn and charged at the January 1973 Term, now beg leave to submit this our final report.

We have been in session for three days, during which time we have considered 11 cases, examined 28 witnesses, and returned eight indictments.

COURTHOUSE INSPECTION ... We have made an inspection of the Hancock County Courthouse we find it to be in fair condition with the exception of the floor in the Tax Assessor's office which needs new floor covering. We would also recommend that additional parking be made available without the removal of any of the existing trees. We also recommend as previous Grand Juries have the installation of central air and heating for the Courtroom.

JAIL INSPECTION.

We find that the kitchen area of the jail is in need of a thorough cleaning. We also recommend that the trap door should be permanently sealed, to prevent water from leaking into the kitchen area.

> YOUTH DETENTION CENTER

We found the center in excellent condition but, recommend that it be equipped with fire extinguisher.

COUNTY HOME We find the home for the aged is being run in an excellent manner and that Mr. and Mrs. Fricke are to be commended for their work. However, we find that the driveway should be graded and covered with shells, and the electrical system should be repaired.

HOSPITAL

We recommend that the hospital board do whatever is necessary to see that maternity cases are handled at our hospital and not require these cases to be handled by either Picayune or Gulfport.

TRAFFIC SIGNALS

We recommend that a caution light be installed at the intersection of Highway 503 and DeLisle Road because of the traffic congestion at this location. We further recommend that flashing lights and a bell be installed at the railroad crossing at Micholson Avenue and Waveland Avenue, which are the two main traffic arteries from U.S. 90 to the city of Waveland.

Ronquille Gets

A New Orleans man pled guilty to six charges of possession of stolen goods valued at $33,500 in circuit court Tuesday and was sentenced to a total of 24 months in the county jail, suspended and $1,500 in fines plus court costs.

Ronald D. Ronquille was arrested here May 30, 1972 for possession of a trailer valued at $4,500, a Ford Diesel tractor valued at $4,500, three Lafitte skiffs valued at $7,500 each, and a Pontiac automobile valued at $2,000. Arraigned Tuesday morning, Ronquille entered a guilty plea to the first charge of possession of the stolen trailer and was sentenced by Judge Leslie B. Grant to four months in the county jail, suspended and a fine of $250 plus costs to be paid within six months. A guilty plea to the remaining five charges brought similar sentences and Ronquille was arrested with Wylle T. Farve, who was tried for the same charges and sentenced in circuit court last week.

In court proceedings Friday, Felix Albert, Jr. was found guilty of charges of burglary and larcery, as well as possession of controlled substances by Judge Grant.

Albert, who is serving a four-year sentence in the state penitentiary at Parchman for a narcotics conviction in Harrison county, was sentenced to four years in the penitentiary on the burglary charge and three years for possession, the sentences to run con-

First Aid Course Given Bay Police, Firemen

Sixteen members of the Bay St. Louis fire and police departments attended an eight-hour Standard First Aid course last week, under the instruction of Brother Albert police headquarters on Old of St. Stanislaus School.

The co multi-media course, authorized by the American Red Cross, included lectures, workbooks, films and practice sessions in which the men learned artificial respiration methods, first aid treatment for shock, application of splints and bandages and control of excessive bleeding.

Cost of workbooks and first aid manuals which will be used in the advanced course which is to follow was borne by the city of Bay St. Louis for the regular police and fire personnel. Volunteers attending assumed their own

adorée Shortle

It is amazing how a person can work hard all year and make less money in January, 1973 than he did in January, 1972.

Actually, it's very simple. Uncle Sam has put the bite on us again, this time in the form of increased Social Security payments.

There used to be an old saying: there are two things you can be sure of--death and taxes. With the advancements made in medicine, it seems as though taxes is the only sure thing left.

What can we do? Man does not live by bread alone. But with the rising cost of food, man cannot live by milk, eggs or meat either.

There is only one solution. Change the tax structure of this country. Perhaps the government could tax petty bureaucrats who take their power seriously. Or how about a tax on a politician's unfulfilled campaign promises--say, $1,000 Another suggestion would be to put a tax on the people who produce boring television shows, asinine commercials and endless strings of talk shows.'

How about a tax on those companies responsible for pounds and pounds of junk mail every year. And a tax on people who call you on the telephone and begin the conversation with, "We're taking a survey...'

The possibilities are unlimited, Imagine the amount of money the government could make if a telephone operator was charged for each time she told you that. there is no one listed by that name when that "no one" happens to be your mother who has lived in the same house for 20 years and has had a phone for the same amount of time. It's mind-boggling.

Taxes should be levied on salesmen who convince unsuspecting consumers to buy automobiles which suffer cardiac arrests the day after the warranty runs out. And that goes for those dandies who sell appliances which do everything except what it was designed to do, pens that won't write and envelopes that won't stay closed.

The form of taxation would not only help the struggling employe but rid our lives of minor annoyances and major irritants.
Unfortunately, however, the Feds probably won't take our suggestions to heart. Instead they will continue to tax and re-tax. In the not too distant future, you may get the following note in your pay envelope: Dear Employe:

You will notice that this month your taxes have been increased by 15 percent. Unfortunately, the amount of your salary does not cover the increase so you will have to work overtime next month to pay Uncle Sam. Also, because of the rising cost of materials and labor, each employe has been asked to take a 15 percent cut in salary. Therefore, you will be working next month for nothing.

South Central Will Expand

South Central Bell said today it will install additional switching equipment in the Pearlington exchange to provide more telephone service to new customers and to take care of increased calling by present customers.

Work on the project will begin in January and be completed during March at a cost of $31,000.

According to Public Service Commissioner John Dale, this expansion of service is indicative of the growth taking place in Pearlington and will enable residents to get the type service they desire.

F.M. Kyle, Jr., South Central Bell district manager in Gulfport, said: "Employees of Western Electric will install the equipment and we have the necessary space available in our building. NEW PAPER

Our Readers Write

This is the first letter I have ever written to a newspaper. However, I feel forced to do so in order to set the record straight concerning false statements and rumors.

Recently, a lady, seeking special recognition, came to my home and asked me, as a World War I Veteran, to sign an endorsement. Having nothing personally against the lady I signed her paper. Now it appears that a claim is being made that Hancock County Barracks of the Veterans of World War I and its Auxiliary Unit has endorsed the lady in question. I signed her netition as an individual veteran. I have no authority to pledge the organization to support any person. Not even the commander has that authority. It would take favorable action by the organization at one of its regular meetings. No such action has ever been taken. Therefore, any otatement that any individual seeking special recognition has the endorsement and support of the local barracks of the Veterans of World War I and its Auxiliary Unit is entirely false. Harold R. Powell

Dear Editor:

The letter to the editor concerning Trinity Christian Training Institute which appeared in the December 21st edition of the Echo left me with the impression that the writer, and perhaps others, are not adequately informed about the institute. I certainly appreciate the writer's privilege to express his opinion as a property owner in the neighborhood of the institute. I am one, too. It is because I consider both the writer's opinion and public opinion important that I am offering the following corrective comments on his letter.-

It was said in the letter that "the institute slyly purchased property, moved in and started operation illegally without bothering to appeal to the zoning board first." I must point out that inquiry WAS made regarding coning regulations prior to initiation of its program, resulting in the institute's understanding that while it was yet a small organization meeting at the four single-family residences of its members and staff (much as a club or church group does before growing into separate facilities) it was in compliance with the zoning regulations. After some months of operation, this understanding has been protested by some of its neighbors, and yet supported by others. Therefore, as a means of clearing the controversy and assuring all of its proper intentions, the institute has petitioned the zoning board for formal approval of its property usage.

In the Dec. 21st letter it was said that the institute attempted to disguise itself as a church or school in its zoning application. The institute's application cited the only stated usages in the coning regulation that came near fitting the institute's program, namely "church and school." The institute filed a two-page accompaning statement with the application that expanded and clarified the description of the intended usage. Thus, far from disguising itself, the institute provided in extensive self-description,

The institute's principal activities are: (1) Bible training for adults in understanding and applying scripture: and (2) a resident nurture program for individuals wishing to make a start in the Christian life in the atmosphere of a Christian family home. Its classes are presently limited to 2 rooms of about 30 student capacity each. Its average attendance is 15 students. Its classes are presently held on Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 7:00 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. The number of those the institute can take as residents, in its nurture program, is one or two per household for a total of 12 in six separate foster homes. At present it has five. While the institute is interested in filling its 2 classrooms, it does not intend to be a dormitory type of school, "which could pack 70 to 300 new residents into a previously quiet neighborhood," as was suggested in the Dec. 21st letter. Its five residents are in single family homes, not a dormitory.

Until recently, the institute has also monsored occasional retreats, which obviously have been confused with the main part of the program described above. The Dec. 21st letter asserted the institute was "in reality, a, summer rehabilitation program for troubled youth who are bused in from big cities in other states and whose paid tuitions actually fund the institute and its staff." The fact is, the institute never has had such a program, nor does it have the necessary staff, equipment or facilities. Because of the poor chances for success of such a program the institute does not favor it. What the institute did provide, in addition to the single family foster homes previously mentioned, was an occasional weekend retreat for requesting groups from within various churches, who neither are underprivileged nor in need of rehabilitation. As to the size of the retreat groups, the second group did prove to be too large, numbering 45 young people and 2 adult sponsors staying as guests in four separate family households. The newspaper account of "70" was reached by adding the 15 members of the 4 households plus 3 staff families (totaling 8) who commuted each day. The institute limited the remainder of its retreats to 30 guests, and because of the subsequent protest of its neighbors, has now stopped them altogether.

The institute's income is principally from the contributions of interested people. Neither its class tuitions nor its past retreat fees begin to meet its ex-

Although the institute is interested in physical growth, it has neither the necessary personnel nor the property, nor the means to procure either. It certainly did not, and could not, make the attempt to purchase an adjoining house as was suggested in the Dec. Mist letter. The institute is interested in maintaining the residential character of its present property in order to assure its resale value. When strong enough to expand, the institute would prefer to do so on more isolated property.

The Dec. 21st letter also said that "the institute should move to an area already zoned to accommodate hundreds of teenagers...." As I have pointed out, the institute has no intention of handling such large numbers, let alone at its present facilities. Furthermore, to its knowledge there is no area already zoned for such a program. Thus, moving will not likely solve the problem, but only relocate it. As a result of the Dec. 19th hearing of the institute's zoning petition, this problem is to be worked out in consultation with the Planning and Zoning Commission and hopefully also with those neighbors who object to the institute's present location. In the meantime the institute intends to operate quietly without retreats, to preserve the residential character of its property and to do its part in maintaining friendly relations with its neigh-

Copies of a payroll envelope leaflet explaining recent changes in the social security law are available to employers at the Gulfport social security office, according to Joseph D. Alfonso, social security representative.

Called "Your 1973 Social Security Deductions." the leaflet explains how payroll contributions to social security starting in January, 1973, will build increased retirement, disability, survivors, and Medicare protection for employees, employers, and selfemployed people, Mr. Alfonso said.

Employers with under 1,000 employees can get up to 1,000 copies of the leaflet free on request," he said. "Employers with over 1,000 employees can get free 'repro' proofs to print their own copies for distribution in payroll envelopes."

Limited supplies of a bulletin board poster and a social security contribution rate table are also available at the Gulfport social security office, he

ARE WE TAKING RIGHT AP-PROACH TO DRUG PROBLEM?

We are bombarded from all sides with the idea that drug abuse is a growing problem. I don't think that can be denied. But are we going about

by EARL "BUCK" LADNER STATE REPRESENTATIVE HANCOCK COUNTY

On January 9, the House of Representatives, after a lengthy debate passed House Bill 59. This bill amended the Mississippi Code of 1942 to transfer the control and jurisdiction of all 16th Section school lands from Boards of Supervisors to the County Boards of Education. The final vote by the house recorded 68 in favor and 39 against. Even though this bill must be voted on by the Senate, it is expected to pass.

Wednesday, January 10, I introduced a bill in the House of Representatives which would amend Section 9352-18. Mississippi Code of 1942, to require persons applying for a motor vehicle license plate to show proof of liability

House Bill 10 is now on the House calendar and subject to be voted on by the House of Representatives at any time. This bill would allow circuit judges in the State of Mississippi to recall grand jurors on vacation.

House Bill 169 passed the House of Representatives on January 11, by a majority vote. This bill repealed the law which prohibited hunting and fishing on Sundays.

Saturday, January 20, at 2 p.m. Senator Martin T. Smith and I will be at Scafidi's Wheel Inn Restaurant to meet with the public.

way? There is certainly room for doubt. Who do most adults you know think should receive information on drug abuse? Most of us would say young people. At whom have we already aimed most of the many and varied programs on drug abuse? Young people. We, as adults, interested in doing something about drug abuse should pause for a few moments and take a close look at our efforts. We may finde

Young people bored with programs on drug abuse; they've heard and seen so many.

The stage for drug abuse is set at What can adults do? Take an honest look at the problem. Start at home. What kind of example do you set? Do you take too many medicines? Are you dependent on any drug, including alcohol? Do you have a lot to say about how much better you feel after taking

Do your children see you run for the bottle of aspirin, tranquilizers or alcohol when you get angry or upset? If so, you are setting this kind of example. You should try to change your attitudes on approaches in these matters.

Colling's Corner

By E.S. Colling

People and crime, it seems, will always be with us. Every period of history has been plaqued by robberies and murders-remember the two robbers crucified beside Jesus? And what we are going through today is more than matched by the terrors endured by Mississippians a hundred and fifty years ago.

That was the period of the Natchez Trace and the river steamboats. It was also the period of Natchez-under-thehill, where robberies, murders and mutilations were so common that they were not even recorded. Travelers on the Trace were always subject to attack by bandits: sometimes they drove them off, but too often they were captured.

robbed and often brutally murdered The most notorious of the outlaws were Big and Little Harpe and Samuel Mason, all of whom had confederates posing as honest merchants in Natchez, who tipped off the outlaws when a party of keelboatmen with their bags of dollars took to the Trace on their journey home to Kentucky. Sometimes the hold-ups took place in the dens and bawdy houses Under-the Hill, but more often in the deep forests along the Trace where a surprise attack was more successful. Even the homesteaders in the rich country around Natchez often were victims when word reached the Harpes or Mason that they had money in their homes. There were a dozen more outlaws of lesser repute who made life precarious for the people of the delta. But the kingpin of them all was the "Great Land Pirate", John Murrel. This miscreant built a huge organization, at one time numbering as many as twenty five hundred men in the Clan of the Mystic Confederacy. After years of freebooting on the Trace and in the many towns around Natchez, Murrel began to specialize in stealing slaves.

This activity proved so lucrative that he conceived the idea of a great slave rebellion which would open the way for untold theft by members of the Clan. The insurrection was to take place on Christmas Day, 1835, but it failed to come off because Murrel was exposed and captured two years before that date. He was sentenced to several years imprisonment in the State penitentiary. The revelation of the plot for a slave rebellion created immense excitement throughout Mississippi and mobs captured many of Murrel's Clan members and lynched them without trial. The insurrection failed. The first third of the 19th century was thus a continual period of danger to every citizen of western Mississippl. Law and order were maintained only by the harshest measures against the robbers and murderers who infested the land; no man was safe on the roads or even in his own home. It was a time of lawlessness which makes today's troubles seem mild in comparison.

Child's Wish

A touching story of a little girl's wish and a big ontertainer's kindness came to light this week.

Robin Porler, three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Randy Porier of Waveland, has been wanting a picture of singer Johnny Cash for a long time. A written request for a agent failed to produce any results.

Hearing of the small child's Mississippi, to-wit: wish, Mrs. Margie Woods, a friend of the Poriers, called Cash's home near Nashville Christmas eve night as a party was in progress. She told the famed singer's secretary of in the mail right away.

This is the first letter I have ever written to a newspaper. However, I feel forced to do so in order to set the record atraight concerning false statements

Recently, a lady, seeking special recognition, came to my home and asked me, as a World War I Veteran, to sign an endorsement. Having nothing personally against the lady I signed her paper. Now it appears that a claim is being made that Hancock County Barracks of the Veterans of World War I and its Auxiliary Unit has endorsed the lady in question. I signed her petition as an individual veteran. I have no authority to pledge the organization to support any person. Not even the commander has that authority. It would take favorable action by the organization at one of its regular meetings. No such action has over been taken. Therefore, any statement that any individual seeking special recognition has the endorsement and support of the local barracks of the Veterans of World War ·I and its Auxiliary Unit is entirely false. Harold R. Powell

Dear Editor:

The letter to the editor concerning Trinity Christian Training Institute which appeared in the December 21st edition of the Echo left me with the impression that the writer, and perhaps others, are not adequately informed about the institute. I certainly appreciate the writer's privilege to express his opinion as a property owner in the neighborhood of the institute. I am one, too. It is because I consider both the writer's opinion and public opinion important that I am offering the following corrective comments on his letter.

It was said in the letter that "the institute slyly purchased property, moved in and started operation illegally without bothering to appeal to the zoning board first." I must point out that inquiry WAS made regarding zoning regulations prior to initiation of us program, resum understanding that while it was yet a small organization meeting at the four single-family residences of its memhers and staff (much as a club or church group does before growing into separate facilities) it was in compliance with the zoning regulations. After some months of operation, this understanding has been protested by some of its neighbors, and yet supported by others. Therefore, as a means of clearing the controversy and assuring all of its proper intentions, the institute has petitioned the zoning board for formal approval of its property usage. In the Dec. 21st letter it was said that the institute attempted to disguise itself as a church or school in its zoning application. 'The institute's application cited the only stated usages in the coning regulation that came near fitting the institute's program, namely, "church and school." The institute filed a two-page accompaning statement with the application that expanded and clarified the description of the intended usage. Thus, far from disguising itself, the institute provided an extensive self-description. The institute's principal activities are: (1) Bible training for adults in understanding and applying scripture; and (2) a resident nurture program for individuals wishing to make a start inthe Christian life in the atmosphere of a Christian family home. Its classes are presently limited to 2 rooms of about 30 student capacity each. Its average attendance is 15 students. Its classes are presently held on Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 7:00 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. The number of those the institute can take as residents, in its nurture program, is one or two per household for a total of 12 in six separate foster homes. At present it has five. While the institute is interested in filling its 2 classrooms, it does not intend to be a dormitory type of school, "which could pack 70 to 300 new residents into a previously quiet neighborhood," as was suggested in the Dec. 21st letter. Its five residents are in single family homes, not a dormitory.

Until recently, the institute has also sponsored occasional retreats, which obviously have been confused with the main part of the program described above. The Dec. 21st letter asserted that the institute was "in reality, a summer rehabilitation program for troubled youth who are bused in from big cities in other states and whose paid tuitions actually fund the institute and its staff." The fact is, the institute never has had such a program, nor does it have the necessary staff, equipment or facilities. Because of the poor chances for success of such a program the institute does not favor it. What the institute did provide, in addition to the single family foster homes previously mentioned, was an occasional weekend retreat for requesting groups from within various churches, who neither are underprivileged nor in need of rehabilitation. As to the size of the retreat groups, the second group did prove to be too large, numbering 45 young people and 2 adult sponsors staying as guests in four separate family households. The newspaper account of "70" was reached by adding the 15 members of the 4 households plus 3 staff families (totaling 8) who commuted each day. The institute limited the remainder of its retreats to 30 guests, and because of the subsequent. protest of its neighbors, has now stopped them altogether.

The institute's income is principally from the contributions of interested people. Neither its class tuitions nor its past retreat fees begin to meet its ex-

Although the institute is interested in physical growth, it has neither the necessary personnel nor the property, nor the means to procure either. It certainly did not, and could not, make the attempt to purchase an adjoining house as was suggested in the Dec. 21st letter. The institute is interested in inaintaining the residential character of its present property in order to assure its resale value. When strong enough to expand, the institute would prefer to do so on more isolated

The Dec. 21st letter also said that "the institute should move to an area already zoned to accommodate hundreds of teenagers...." As I have pointed out, the institute has no intention of handling such large numbers let alone at its present facilities. Furthermore, to its knowledge there is no area already zoned for such a program. Thus, moving will not likely solve the problem, but only relocate it. As a result of the Dec. 19th hearing of the institute's zoning petition, this problem is to be worked out in consultation with the Planning and Zoning Commission and hopefully also with those neighbors who object to the institute's present location. In the meantime the institute intends to operate quietly without retreats, to preserve the residential character of its property and to do its part in maintaining friendly relations with its neigh-

Social Security Information

Copies of a payroll envelope leaflet explaining recent changes in the social security law are available to employers at the Gulfport social security office, according to Joseph D, Alfonso, social security representative. Called "Your 1973 Social Security Deductions," the leaflet explains how payroll contributions to social security starting in January, 1973, will build increased retirement, disability, survivors, and Medicare protection for employees, employers, and self-employed people, Mr. Alfonso said. "Employers with under 1,000 employees can get up to 1,000 copies of the leaflet free on request," he said. "Employers with over 1,000 employees can get free 'repro' proofs to print their own copies for distribution in payroll envelones.

On January 9, the House of Representatives, after a lengthy debate passed House Bill 59. This bill amended the Mississippi Code of 1942 to transfer the control and jurisdiction of all 16th Section school lands from Boards of Supervisors to the County Boards of Education. The final vote by the house recorded 68 in favor and 39-against, Even though this bill must be voted on by the Senate, it is expected to pass.

Wednesday, January 10, I introduced a bill in the House of Representatives which would amend Section 9352-18, Mississippi Code of 1942, to require persons applying for a motor vehicle license plate to show proof of liability

House Bill 10 is now on the House calendar and subject to be voted on by the House of Representatives at any time. This bill would allow circuit judges in the State of Mississippi to .. recall grand jurors on vacation.

House Bill 169 passed the House of Representatives on January 11, by a majority vote. This bill repealed the law which prohibited hunting and fishing on Sundays.

Saturday, January 20, at 2 p.m. Senator Martin T. Smith and I will be at Scafidi's Wheel Inn Restaurant to meet with the public.

Who do most adults you know think should receive information on drug abuse? Most of us would say young people. At whom have we already aimed most of the many and varied programs on drug abuse? Young people. We, as adults, interested in doing something about drug abuse should pause for a few moments and take a close look at our efforts. We may find:

Young people bored with programs on drug abuse; they've heard and seen so many.

Young people more informed on drugs and drug abuse than most adults. Young people look on drug abuse as a problem of adults as well as youth. Misinformation being disseminated

by well-meaning adults. HOME SETS STAGE FOR DRUG ABUSE

The stage for drug abuse is set at

What can adults do? Take an honest look at the problem. Start at home. What kind of example do you set? Do you take too many medicines?

Are you dependent on any drug, in-Do you have a lot to say about how much better you feel after taking medicine? Do your children see you run for the bottle of aspirin, tranquilizers or alcohol when you get angry or upset? If so, you are setting this kind of example. You should try to change your attitudes on approaches in these matters.

WHEN YOU DISCUSS DRUG ABUSE When you discuss drug abuse with your own or other young people: Be well informed; they are.

Be honest; they can tell. Be open; accept their opinion even if it doesn't agree with your own.

Keep in mind drug abuse is not just a problem with youth. It is everybody's problem. Let's all work together calmly to help solve this problem.

Colling's Corner

By E.S. Colling

People and crime, it seems, will always be with us. Every period of history has been plaqued by robberies and murders-remember the two robbers crucified beside Jesus? And what we are going through today is more than matched by the terrors endured by Mississippians a hundred and fifty years ago.

That was the period of the Natchez Trace and the river steamboats. It was also the period of Natchez-under-thehill, where robberies, murders and mutilations were so common that they were not even recorded. Travelers on the Trace were always subject to attack by bandits; sometimes they drove them off, but too often they were captured,

robbed and often brutally murdered. The most notorious of the outlaws were Big and Little Harpe and Samuel Mason, all of whom had confederates posing as honest merchants in Natchez, who tipped off the outlaws when a party of keelboatmen with their bags of dollars took to the Trace on their iourney home to Kentucky. Sometimes the hold-ups took place in the dens and bawdy houses Under-the-Hill, but more often in the deep forests along the Trace where a surprise attack was more successful. Even the homesteaders in the rich country around Natchez often were victims when word reached the Harpes or Mason that they had money

There were a dozen more outlaws of lesser repute who made life precarious for the people of the delta. But the kingpin of them all was the "Great Land Pirate", John Murrel. This miscreant built a huge organization, at one time numbering as many as twenty five hundred men in the Clan of the Mystic Confederacy. After years of freebooting on the Trace and in the many towns around Natchez, Murrel began to specialize in stealing slaves.

This activity proved so lucrative that he conceived the idea of a great slave' rebellion which would open the way for untold theft by members of the Clan. The insurrection was to take place on Christmas Day, 1835, but it failed to come off because Murrel was exposed and captured two years before that date. He was sentenced to several years imprisonment in the State penitentiary. The revelation of the plot for a slave rebellion created immense excitement throughout Mississippi and mobs captured many of Murrel's Clan members and lynched them without trial. The insurrection failed.

The first third of the 19th century was thus a continual period of danger to every citizen of western Mississippi. Law and order were maintained only by the harshest measures against the robbers and murderers who infested the land; no man was safe on the roads or even in his own home. It was a time of lawlessness which makes today's troubles seem mild in comparison.

The board passed a motion unanimously adopting the system to begin this weekend if a resident can be obtained. An agreement was also reached to work out a revised system for collecting E.R. and doctor's fees from out-patients treated in the emergency room. Chevis said he had investigated E.R. procedures at length with administrators at hospitals in Gulfport, Mobile, Picayune, Slidell and several smaller private hospitals in the New Orleans area.

A number of small hospitals have closed emergency rooms altogether because of the same problems encountered at Hancock, he noted, and those which still have emergency room service generally have a system of outside residents such as the one outlined for Hancock.

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES MATHERNE

Here's the sure answer for mothers who are tired of being told: "You never fix what I like," while their conscience tells them delectable goodles are often not good for their kids. Bridge that generation gap forming across your dining room table by whipping together the often asked-for and wonderfully nutritious combination of bananas and peanut butter. Your kids will sing your praises. Your own good sense will applaud you, as well, for the wholesome ingredients you put into these treats are good for everybody — lunchbox sporters, slumber party gigglers or midnight munchers — all your favorite people will cheer. Better yet, let the kids bake them. Then they can enjoy them right after the haking session when Farings Paranty Party. them right after the baking session when Banana Pennut Butter Top Hats are at their best.
